THE ART SUPPLEMENT.
A DOUBLE ENTENDER,
from a picture executed in 1875 by Mr. Briton Riviere, and resemily exhibited in the Doulley gallery. The incident it depicts is simple, familiar, and comic. His pigship's obese condition and general well-to-do appearance inform us at a glance thas he has just been rudely disturbed in a life of case and luxury, and has been driven out of his senuous paradles, to be given over to the cruel mercles of a farmyard urchin, armed with a stinging whip, is more than he can stand. The boy insists on the pig going north, the pig insists just as determinedly on going south; and the question is to be decided by the amount of mind with which the muscle can be used. A battle with obtinacy six, with strength silled with maglignity and stupidity, is about the most unsuffactory kind of conflict in which any of us can engage. "As obstinate as a pig" is one of the most expressive of homely proverbs. And let the obstinate man look on Briton Riviere's ploture and see a carefacture of himself.

HE N. S. WALES ACCLIMATISATION SOCIETY.

How. Treasures: Mn. W. Bradder.

Gentlemen favourable to the formation of the above are requested to attend a MEDTING at the Exchange, on MUNDAY next, at 3 p.m.

It being universally sillowed that the colony of New South Wales is exceedingly well adapted for the Acclimatisation of Song Birds and Game other than those that are indigenous to the soil and climate, a movement is being made for the establishment of a Society under whose anaplece all such Rirds and Animals may be introduced as shall afford sport and anusoment, without doing injury to the agriculturals and gardener. It is believed that a large number of members can be enrolled in all parts of the Control of the Cont satisfactory results; and it is keyond a doubt that the societies in these colonies will cheerfully co-operate with the one to be farmed here.

It is therefore proposed, for the purposes of the Society;—
That the Society shall, immediately on its formation; make arrangements for procuring from Europe. New Zoaland, and the United States of America the Animals and Birds most sought after in the colony either as game to give aport or an songesters to callyen our bush homes; and that members shall be suplied with what they require, according to priority of application.

That the Government shall be asked to subsidies the Society, either by an annual money voto or otherwise, such allowance to be made rao ana. In accordance with the amount of the yearly subscription list, and that the funds of the Society be employed wholly and solely in carrying out the objects of acclimatisation. That application shall be made to the Government for the preclamation of certain reservos in the different districts of the Colony, which reserves shall be under the control of the Society, for the purposition, and the state of the society is subscripted and the state of the society is subscripted and the state of the society is subscripted to co-operate satingly, be neither parts of the Colony be asked to co-operate actively, be neither parts of the Colony be asked to co-operate actively, be neither approached the society's business in their respective districts.

That Life Members he received on payment of Sil los; and that the annual subscription for ordinary Members he Sil is.

That the first meeting a Committee or Board of Directors be appointed, together with a Tressurer and Secretary; that such Committee or Directors shall have, during their year of office, full management of the Society's shall have during their year of office, full management of the Society's additional provided in the Bill lately passed through Tarliament.

That an active Carvasser be at once appointed, to obtain subscripting Members in the city and subtrain a di tennial Medal for Artificial Teos. Also, painless nitrous oxide gai extraction.

Mr. HOSKINS, in reply to Mr. M'Elhone, said he was sware that Mr. Janes Glass had still got his fencing and other obstructions on the Water or Travelling Stock Roserve at Millor's Creek, and that the public were debarred from secres to it? Instructions had been issued for the removal of the fencing.

Mr. LACKEY, in reply to Mr. Buchanan, said the Colonial Treasurer in his financial statement of February 12, infimated the action the Government proposed taking 12 reference to future railway extensions. It would be seen from that statement, that the line to the district of Mudgee was included.

from that statement, that the line to the district of Mindgeo was included.

Mr. LACKEY, in reply to Mr. Dangar, said the iron beat for Moree was in hand, and that for Goongara was ready to be forwarded, and those for Collarendabri and Pockataroe were dispatched on the 17th ultimo. The two has mentioned were forwarded to the care of the local read silicer at Tamworth. The others would be sent without loss of time. The road officer would hand them to the most oligible local authorities in each case, who would probably be most competent to make the best arrangements for the meanagement of them.

Mr. HOSKINS, in reply to Mr. Dangar, gave information relative to Salter's conditional purchase at Bingers.

Sir HENRY PARKES, in reply to Mr. Coonan's question, said the question of establishing police quarters at Imbrebongie would be considered when a report on the matter had been received.

Mr. LACKEY, in reply to Mr. Coonan's question, said laquiry would be made as to the desirability of making provision for a bridge over the Bogon River at Gongolgan. The question of preclaiming a continuation of the Main Western Read from Warren would be duly considered before the next Estimates were prepared. The question of making provision for a bridge over Gulargumbong Creek, so the road from Dubbo to Coomamble, was under consideration.

Mr. HOSKINS, in reply to Mr. Coonan, said the land spent for Coonamble would proceed to perform his duties when the conditional purchase register had been returned by the Tressury, where it was having noted on it against each purchase in 'the new district the amount of interest paid. It would be some two or three weeks before the matter could be attended to. There was a sum of money on the Estimates for a District Land and Survey Office at Dubbo. The question of placing the road from Dubbo to Coonamble as a first-class road would be inquired into lefore the schedule of 1850 was prepared.

RESERVES FOR PUBLIC RECREATION.
On the motion of Mr. Lucas, the Speaker left the chair, and the House went into committee for the consideration of the following resolutions:—
"I. The health of the people should be one of the first objects of all good Governments, and to insure a healthy, and, consequently, a vigorous and intelligent community, it is necessary that all cities, towns, villages, and such other centres of population, should possess parks and pleasure grounds as places of public recreation. 2. That immediately sites survey of any Crown lands as the sites of future grounds as places of public recreation. 2. That immediately sites survey of any Crown lands as the sites of future grounds, and other like the survey of any Crown lands as the sites of future public buildings, also that every fifth section of such land, and at least 640 acres suburban thereto, should be deficited as parks, pleasure grounds, and other like places of public recreation. 3. In these cities, towns, and willages in and stound in the provious cleuse should be made. 4. In the cases of those cities, towns, and willages in and acound which there are no such Crown lands, the Government should, as opportunities offer, purchase land for the purchase monoy should be paid from lands, the Government should, as opportunities offer, purchase land for the purchase monoy should be paid from the macey received for Crown lands sold by auction during the year in which any such purchase may be made. 5. That the foregoing resolutions be communicated by address to his Excellency the Governor."

Mr. LUCAS, in moving the resolutions, said he believed file Colorial Exercity was now in favour of them, and did sot intend to oppose them. It must be self-evident to every hen member, that to secure the health of the population we many deaths as our statistics showed, and particularly of young children in the city. ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Mr. HOSKINS, in reply to Mr. Dateour, gaves information relative to a recreation reserve to a single derive by a constraint of the control o

The third resolution would remain the same. In the fourth the omission of all the word after the word "paragraphs" was suggested.

Mr. LUCAS accepted the amendments.

Mr. GARRETT said that the evil of overcrowding about Sydney had arisen from the Crown having no power to control the private subdivision of large properties. What the bon. member had said about Balmain proved what he stated. There was a large estate there which in former years was used as a common. Then Balmain had the reputation of being a very healthyplace. But it had been belif over very thickly and, the drainage not being provided for, the place had become one of the most unhealthy about Sydney. The owners, who, he believed, got the property for nothing, were reaping fortunes by selling portions of it. They and the owners of similar properties ought to be compelled to provide ground for places of recreation and public buildings. In West Maitland they had to give an enormous price for an old building for a Court-house. Adjoining public townships, cutting up the land and selling it without regard to the public requirements. There ought to be power to compel persons in subdividing estates to reserve cortain portions for public buildings. In one of the most pleaning suburbs in Sydney, one that the Prémier was himself interested in, the suburb of Achfield, there was no reserve; and two years ago a deputation waited upon him and coolly asked him to give them £16,000 or $26,000 to buy fifteen or 16 acres of isnd to make a public park. He thought the persons who made all the money out of these lands ought to give the parks. He once introduced a doputation to Sir John Robertson from Moss Vale, to ask for lead for a moseourse. They were all land-owners on the deputation, and not one of them was generous enough to give the 60 or 60 acres. To take it altogether out of the public revenue was unfair. In America every town heal large reserves, and the streets were wide enough to admit of planting frees. This might be secured here by passing a clause in the L

MR. MACLEAN AND MR. MELHONE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—According to his speech in the House last might, the hon. member for the Upper Hunter thought proper to accuse me of making money out of these political agitations. I beg to give this attacement a flat denial.

Instead of making money out of my connection with political societies, I may, perhaps, be excused for saying, it is quite the reverse—political societies have made money out of me. I therefore hunt the false accusation back into the teeth of the hon. member, Mr. M'Elhone.

I have not made such a good thing out of politics, as it is alleged the hon, member has, in travelling by train at the expense of the tax-payers of the colony on his way to buy the fat cattle of the squatters whom he pretends to hate so much.

It appears to me somewhat inconsistent in Mr. M'Elhone in accusing any one of taking money from a rival candidate rather than go to the poll, when he himself endeavoured to induce me to do the same thing at Burrowa. Instead of there being such a hurry to pass a Privilege Bill, I think it would be as well if some measure were enacted to protect the public outside from the wanton attacks of some in the House.

RIDGE OVER THE CASTLEREAGH.

The same deputation afterwards waited upon the hon. Ministagror Works.

Mr. Coonan said they had come to ask the Minister whether the Government would place a sum of money on the Estimates for a bridge over the Castlercagh. In reply to a quation he put in the House recently, the Minister had informed him that the officer of the department had reported gainst it, and in favour of one over the Coonamble Creak. But this would have to be three or four miles out of the term. The late government had promised to put the bridge there, and he had understood that provision was to be made on the Estimates for the bridge. They also requested hat the read should be placed on the schedule of first-class reads.

effect that it was desirable to extend the same privilege to travellers from the country to Sydney as were now enjoyed by Sydney travellers to the country—namely, a penny a mile train on a Saturday. They urred that the country people ought to be treated as liberally as the townspeeple were, and that they should have the opportunity of going to Sydney as cheaply as the Sydney people could go into the country.

Mr. Lacker said he was sorry he could not comply with the request of the deputation. The penny'a mile train was instituted for the purpose of giving the residents of Sydney an opportunity of getting excursions into the country for the purpose of health and recreation; but it could hardly be said that the people in the country would require in the same way this privilege. The country would require in the same way this privilege. The country would require in the same way this privilege. The country beople had all the privileges which could be given to them in the way of excursions rates on holidays and public occasions. Under these circumstances he could not see his way clear to comply with the application. More than that, he feared that if the concession were granted, most of the country traille would be used for purposes other than recreation; in fact, people would go into town and get their supplies and do their business by these trains, instead of by the ordinary trains.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Introduced by Mr. John Davies, M.L.A., a deputation from the National Division of the Sons of Temperance waited upon the Colonial Secretary, yesterday morning, with reference to the liquor traffic, to urge him to take stops for making certain alterations in the present licensing regulations, deemed by them to be necessary. There were present Messra, J. Davies and J. Roseby, Ms.L.A., and Messra. W. Henson, P. R. Holdsworth, A. Morris, J. Creer, A. Asher, R. Balle, J. T. Jarman, G. Palmer, E. Bull, C. Carr, R. Cottam, H. Ford, W. Bowden, C. Cousens, J. Cawdell, and U. W. Carpenter.

Mr. Davies, in a short speech, introduced the deputation, saying that at the annual conference of delegates from the different branches of the Sons of Temperance in the colony, the question of the liquor traffic was considered, and the deputation was appointed to wait upon the Fremier and sak his assistance as head of the Government in reforming some of the evils connected with it. Mr. Roseby, the Most Worthy Patriarch for the year, would address him on the subject.

Mr. Roseny said that they represented the supresented.

sympathy sender his co-operation of special value, and who has proved the practicability of producing clives and thin oil to vie with Lucca or Leghorn, has rendered his warmest support.

"Arrangements having now been made for a suitable grand organ, I do not find myself in a position to advise with regard to the other propositions to provide organs, as it they are more or less of a succulative nature, and in fact most of the proposals with regard to musical entertainments are not of such a practical or well-defined nature as would justify me in bringing them before the serious consideration of the Commission. The proposal of Mr. Montague Younger on the partof the Church choirs of the society to give an onatoric once each month on a grand scale is one which merits the carnest attention of the Commission. I have examined it thoroughly, and will, in a resolution, invite the Commission to deal with it Communications have been received from New York, Washington, and Canada, by last Pacific Mail, enclosing printed circulars, which were issued in the United States by Mr. R. W. Cameron, who has since been appointed as a Commission of the resolution, invite the Commission to represent us in the great Republic. These circulars, one of which bears date Faris, November 11, and emanating from the secretary of our Paris Commission there, was issued before M. Joubert became cognizant of the fact that the Exhibition had been taken out of the lands of the Agricultural Society, and under the impression, apparently, that the Exhibition was to be a self-paying concern, and was to rest on a purely commercial and speculative, rather than on a national basis. It has, I am informed, had rather a deterrent effect in the United States, and to a greater degree in Canada, in the minds of intending exhibitors. Mr. Joubert's circularis as follows:

""Agricultural Society of New South Wales. Syding International Exhibition to be held in Sydingy in Angust, 1870, I delegate to you full power to act on behalf of the Council of the Agricultural despatch from the Hnn. the Colonial Secretary, dated March 13, was read, by which the Executive Commissioner is informed that the Colonial Architect has been instructed to carry out the suggestion of his Excellency the Governor, that balconies be added to the eastern part of the Exhibition building.

"As Mr. Barnot's letter to the Colonial Secretary states that this will diminish the space available for exhibits, your committee requested the Executive Commissioner to at once interview the Hon. the Colonial Secretary, to represent the very great importance of preserving the whole of the floor space in the interior of the building intact, more especially as it is interior to small for the requirements of the different colonies, to which the eastern portion of the building has been assigned.

"The Executive Commissioner was also requested to point out that, in the Committee's opinion, the Commission should be enasulted before any change in the original plan of the building is absolutely decided upon, as the Commission cannot make definite assignments of space to exhibiting countries if such space is to be liable to alterations without its knowledge.

"The following cablegram was lad before the Commission cannot make definite assignments of space to exhibiting countries if such space in the induling, and how apportioned. Also off Great Britain and other European countries will be officially represented. If favourable report, organ, accept offer. (Signed) P. A. Jinnings."

"Several propositions relative to munical entertainments have been brought to the notice of your Committee, but definite arrangements must await further consideration.

"On the motion of Mr. Brotribb, seconded by Mr. Mort, it was resolved,—That the Commission be recommended to invite Mr. Calvort to become an honorary member of the Committee on Interior Arrangements."

The report was received.

Mr. Jennings, referring to the report just read, said he had felt it his duty in an interview which he had with the Colonial Secretary, to say that viowing

Mr. P. G. Kino brought up a report from the Live Stock Committee, submitting a circular to be substituted for one previously adopted.

The report was received.

ONORRYS AT THE EXHIBITION.

Mr. Jennings moved,—"That the Executive Commissione be authorised to arrange with Mr. Montagua Younger for a series of six cratories, in occordance with the terms of his proposal." Mr. Younger, on behalf of the Church Choir Association, had submitted a programme of sacred music, which the association was willing to carry out. His proposal was to give six first-class omatories, one each month for six months, at a cost of £180 each. The expense was to be simply for music books, for thirty paid musicians, for the arrangement of hand party, and for the hire of a rehearing room. It was contemplated to have a chorus of from 200 to 250 trained voices, and a large number of instrumentalists, all giving their services gratuitously, as also would Mr. Younger as leader. The expenses, in short, would be merely for the bare outlay. Mr. Jennings very carnestly recommended this proposal to the favourable consideration of the Commission. Out of, many similar proposals which had been made this was byf ar the most reasonable; and as the concerts were to be held once a month, they would not stand in the way of hay xunther arrangements which it might be deemed desirable to make.

Dr. Garran moved,—"That the Government of New South Wales be respectfully requested to move the Lords of the Admiraty to allow the original log of Captain Cook, recording the discovery of the eastern coast of Australia, to be east to Australia, to be on view during the Exhibition."

The motion was agreed to.

Sales of produce were held to-day by Mr. Barker, Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark, Mr. Bridge, Messrs. Mort and Co., and Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin. The supply of hides was rather small, and as there was good competition prices ruled higher. Good lots of heavies brought 34d. to 34d., and a few extra lots were placed at 35d to 42d.; yearlings, 1s. to 4s. 6d.; calfekins, 10d. to 2s. 9d.; kangaroo skins, 8d.; pig, 3d. to 6d.; goat, 6d. Tellow in limited demand, and only a small quantity disposed of at up. o £27 10s. for best mutton, £26 to £27 5s. for good to prime beef.

The Import markets remain in a very unsatisfactory state, transactions during the week having been almost of a retail character. There is a firmer feeling in breadstuffs, and at Mesers. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin's sale to-day several lots of wheat changed hands at 4s. 103d. to 4s. 11d. per bushel. Dundee goods are very dull. Scotch made cornsacks have been sold on Melbourno account at 7s. 3d. in bond, but this cannot be account at 7s. 3d. in bond, but this cannot be called market value; and woolpacks are offering at 3s. to 3s. 13d., duty paid. In liquors there have been sales of Lowndes' rum at 4s., and large contents geneva at extreme rates. Brandles are steady at 9s. to 9s. 3d. for Martell's and Hennessy's bulk; 33s. 6d. for the latter in glass. A new bottled stout has been introduced as the Jack of Hearts brand. It is neatly got up, and the quality well spoken of. Patna rice has an easier tendency; small lots can be bought at £24 to £25. Sugars are firm. The cargo ex Tullechgorum was offered for sale at Messrs, Gilchrist, Stubbs, and Weston's rooms to-day. The biddings were not up to importers' ideas, and the shipment was withdrawn.

The Balmain Penny Bank report for 1878 shows that the institution is in a satisfactory state, 807 accounts are open, and of these, 263 being abore 20s, each, bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. The payments last year amounted to £1870 2s. 11d, and on January 1st there was in the bank £2417 0s. 5d.

SATURDAY, MARCH 22, 1879.

In the Legislative Assembly, yesterdy,— Questions were asked by Messrs. MURPHY, M'ELHON. BEYERS, TAYLOR, MACINTOSH, COHEN, DANGAR ROSEBY, and BUCHANAN, and enswered by Ministers. Mr. Lucas moved that the House go into committee the whole to consider resolutions previously moved by ting reserves for public recreation.

The motion was agreed to. Mr. Larges moved his resolutions in committee . All the land was being sold in the crowded parts of the colony, and in half a century there would not be a breathing place available anywhere unless reserves were made and land in suit-able places bought back. The death rate was rising alarm-ingly in Sydney and the suburbs, and he attributed that well as for the present generation.

Sir HENRY PARKES suggested certain amondments as Mr. GARRETT suggested that the term "parks" sho be left out; as "recreation grounds" would include every-thing required. In the case of Sydney and its suburbs the evil had arisen from the fact that the Crown had granted the land without taking power for reserving portions in the interests of the public when the land began to be laid out for buildings. Private owners made sufficient profits out of these Crown grants to afford to be liberal to the public, and added to the death-rate. Still, this motion was in the right direction, and he would support it.

The resolutions as amended were agreed to, reported to the House, read a first and second time, and agreed to.

The committee was resumed on the Copyright Bill, beginning with clause 11. All the subsequent clauses and the schedules were passed without debate, the bill was reported, and the third reading appointed for Tuesday next.

Mr. DRIVER moved the second reading of the Adulteration of Food Provention Bill. It was identical with the Bill which had been before both Houses previously, and he should therefore content himself with showing the second

The motion was agreed to, and the House went into com-mittee to consider it in detail. The bill was reported with-out amendment, and the third reading made an order of ne day for Tuesday next.

was resumed on the Mudgee Turf Club The Committee was resumed on the Mudgee Turf Claff Bill. After debate by Messrs. J. DAVIES, W. DAVIES, and Mr. M'ELHONZ, progress was reported, and leave given to sit again that day week.
On the motion of Mr. W. DAVIES, papers were ordered respecting tenders for provisions to Government institutions for the year 1876-79; and on the motion of Mr. Darver, the Chippendale Roman Catholic Church Land Sale Bill was referred to a select committee.
The House adjourned at seventees o'clock on Tuesday.

Now that Mr. FITZPATRICE's qualification for the holding of a seat in the Assembly has been disputed, it is just as well that the matter has been referred to the Committee of Elections and Qualifications. It is very undesirable to have questions of this sort raised and then to have them left unsettled but we imagine that most people will be of opinion that it is a pity that the matter was ever brought up at all. Mr. Garnerr assures us that in starting the inquiry he was ani-mated by a desire to promote the purity of our political institutions and not by feelings of political institutions and not by recings or personal animosity, and in saying this he may have been honest enough. But men are not always so fully acquainted with their motives as they imagine, and Mr. Garnerr's assurance that no dislike to Mr. Firzparance assurance that no dislike to Mr. Firzparance. induced him to take the step, by means of which he hopes to see a vacancy at Yass, may be taken as another illustration of what is known as the philosophy of the uncon-scious. It is a significant fact, that the members for Camden and Yass have for a long time been at cross purposes in the Assembly, and this circumstance must have occurred to many people when the report of the debate of Tuesday last was being read.

Unless the Committee of Qualifications should alight on some more conclusive arguments than were urged during the debate in the House, Mr. GARRETT's crusade is hardly likely to prove a success. It is difficult; indeed, to detect any point which could be seriously urged to justify Mr. GARRETT's conclusion. The debate clearly brought out what every body knew before, and that is, that the Constitution Act disallows certain kinds of pensioners to be members of the Assembly, but nothing whatever was advanced which proved that pensioners of Mr. FITZPATRICK's escription are excluded. Not a sentence was quoted or a fact addriced that pointed in this lirection. The Act says, that persons holding a pension at pleasure or for a number of years are disqualified, but nothing is said about the holders of pensions for life, and it is to this category that Mr. Farzarnick may be assumed to belong. An attempt was made to show that what the Constitution Act does not convey in so many words, 'it conveys by implication, but, even if this were the case, it need not be said that something more definite than implication is necessary to decide a matter of so much importance as the one that has now been raised. The pension held by the member for Yass is a very different one from the pensions which are contemplated by the Constitution Act. The holder of a pension at pleasure might be placed in circumstances in which he might be tempted to pander to the power that could take his pension away/ the same could hardly be said holder of a pension under an Act of Parlia-ment and for life. The distinction between Parliamentary pensioners and the pensioners of the Crown is one that is more easily disputed than disproved. An attempt was made the other evening to show that the man who holds a pension under an Act of Parliament differs in no respect from him who holds one under the Crown. But the two things are wholly separate. A Crown pension is one that the Sovereign gives, and which the Sovereign which ereign can take away; not so a pension which is secured by an Act of the Legislature. Pensions of this class, although conferred by the Crown as well as by Parliament, are not conferred by the Sovereign in the sense that Crown pensions are.

Nor was it shown that a Parliamentary pension is a pension held at pleasure. It is true that the Parliament which passed an Act by which a pension is secured can at any, time repeal that Act, but such a repeal cannot take place merely by the pleasure of the Assembly, which seemed to be the point assumed by one or two of the speakers who took the side of Mr. GARRETT. The Assembly may decide to repeal the Act under which Mr. FITZPATRICK holds his pension, but the Council may reverse such a decision/ If the Assembly and the Council were agree to such a course their united decision might be upset by the Crown, and if so, in what sense could it be said that the holder of such a pension as the one re-ferred to, is at the pleasure of the Assembly If the whole business depended upon the sor of the Assembly alone, that act would amount to a public repudiation, and though the Assembly can pass such an Act if it ples just as it can do anything else it may please it can hardly be said that such a course be within its prerogatives. It may have the power to do so, but has it the right? Pariament may revise the pension list—it has already done this-but it would be a stretch ing of words to say that it can, at it to overcrowding. In Balmain, for instance, the death the jaunty manner in which it was asset to 15, and in St. Leonards from 14 to 18 in the thouand. He gave similar evidence in regard to the city and others of the grows similar evidence in regard to the city and others of the moral obligation which is established by the provisions of the Statute-book. The nuation Act consist partly of moneys which have been given by the bounty of Parliament but they consist also of moneys which have been earned by the pensioners themselves, and we should hope that the day has not arrived in which a majority of both Houses will feel that rights which are guaranteed by an Act of Parliament are held merely at pleasure. If is for the purpose of rendering such rights intheir liberality would equally benefit themselves. The locality benefited should contribute the sum necessary to dependent of the accidents of political caprior that life pensions are granted, and no honest body of men can claim to hold at its pleasure Mr. Machinosh held that the city of Sydney was not unhealthy as compared with other cities. Then it must be remembered that the death-rate in the city was largely increased by cases which came to the Infirmary and other public institutions from all parts of the colony. The water and sewerage also in the suburbs were bad, and added to the death-rate. Still, this motion was in the right direction and he would support in the sense in which the phrase is usually understood. privileges which are guaranteed by law. No doubt it may be said that there is a sense phrase is usually understood.

Even if it could be said that the conclusion to which Mr. Garnerr and those who agree with him have arrived is in harmony with the letter of the law, it could hardly be contended that it accords with the spirit of it. The restrictions placed on pensiohers had their origin in the days when there were chronic

THE NEX MORNING HERGLD, SATURDAY, MARCH 92, and a second production would not be a second to the product of the lower it. People outside will think of it according as it deserves. To shut off criticism will not raise its dignity one inch, and to suffer criticism will not lower it, whenever criticism is unjust. The one privilege which members most want, is the privilege of behaving as they ought to do.

A cablegram, lately received, states that the Finance Minister of the Dominion of Canada has submitted to Parliament a new protective tariff, which, it is expected, will produce a yearly increase to the revenue of two million dollars. Possibly that increase might be required. The revenue, which amounted in 1876 to nearly four and a half millions sterling, was unequal to the expenditure by nearly half a million. Sir John Macdonald, who denied that he was a protectionic law more productive. who denied that he was a protectionist any more than so far as protection was required for revenue purposes, may defend the budget of his Treasurer purposes, may defend the budget of his Treasurer on this ground. But what we are more nearly concerned with is the policy that appears to have dictated a retrograde movement in both the new world and the old. The remarks of the Saturday Review respecting Prince BISMARCE'S fiscal policy in Germany, apply to that of the Canadian Ministry. The new taxes proposed will, probably, bring in revenue. Whether the calculation indulged in be an accurate one is quite another matter. If the same amount of goods he imported under this tariff, as there one is quite another matter. If the same amount of goods be imported, under this tariff, as there was under the one that has been in existence, the amount to be derived from the taxes proposed to be enacted neight be determined to a nicety. But, should this be the case, the duties must not be called protective. To the extent that they cause home production they above the cause for the cause they above the cause for the cause they above the cause for the cause the cause they above the cause for the cause the cau that might be received from abroad—at a lower rate of cost. The Review says:—"It is impossible to contend on behalf of free trade that increased rate of cost. The Review says:—"It is impossible to contend on behalf of free trade that increased taxes, even if of a protective character, do not answer the immediate purpose for which they are imposted. They bring in money. They enable a Government to meet or to mitigate present embarrassment." But we are also told "That a nation by imposing protective duties mortgages its future. It abandons wealth which it might possess." With sarcastic force the journal in mention adds, "All treaties of commerce are departures from the strict principles of free trade. They are, at best, only methods of getting the idea of free trade into heads which would otherwise be impervious to it. If they are looked upon in themselves as good and valuable bargains, the bargainer must have something to start with. It is useless to haggle over the exchange of a calf for a donkey unless the one haggler has a calf and the other a donkey to haggle about." In the case of Germany, Prince BISMAROK contends that she is in an entirely different position to England, or to that we may assign to Canada. She is not likely to have the foreign trade that Great Britain possesses, that the United States might have had, that is open to Canada, or that may appertain to this also told of That a nation by imposing protective duties mortgages its future. It abandoms wealth which it might possess. With acreastic force the sound in mention adds, "All treaties of commerce departures from the strict principles of free trade. The heads which it might possess." With acreastic force the free trade. The heads which it might possess. All treaties of commerce departures from the strict principles of free trade. The heads which would otherwise be impervious to it. If they are looked upon in themselves as good and valuable bengains, the bengainer must have something to start with. Coopers are not such fossils as to oppose the introduction of appropriate machinery, knowing that ultimately it benefited the workman. Messrs. Hudson imported machinery of this sort, but soon abandoned its use, no doubt on account of its inutility for the working of our colonial timber, which is not so easily wrought as the American. The coopers were called out because of Mr. Cormack's inordinate employment of apprentices and his opposition to society men, and to the eight-hour system. A letter was read from Adelaide, communicating the fact that the iron trades there were out on strike in consequence of, the employers seeking to set aside the eight hours arrangement, and asking for moral and pseuniary support. It was resolved that the secretary pecuniary support. It was resolved that the secretar be requested to write to the affiliated societies recommending that the required assistance be afforded.

The meeting adjourned.

This budly lighted state of the 300 yards of the eastern side of Goorgo-street, between King and Hunter streets, is referred to by a correspondent, who suggests that a change should be made before the Exhibition takes place.

"Onserver" makes the sensible suggestion, that in order to suit the convenience of the public the names and addresses of the various Consuls should be posted in some control place in the city. He thinks the Office would suit.

The sixth decade of the "Prodromus of the Palmontology of the colony of Victoria" has just appeared from the Government Printing Office, Melbourne. FLOOD AT WAGGA WAGGA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.] (FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

WAGGA WAGGA, FAIDAY.

Regarding the temporary railway bridge, it was predicted that should a flood occur in the river the distances between the supports were not sufficiently far spart to allow the drift wood and heavy timben brought down the river to pass free. The prediction has been realized. On Widnesday last it was telegraphed from Gundagai that the River was 25 feet and rising rapidly, and on Thursday the river commenced to rise steadily at Wagga. During the night the flood waters reached to very near their highest point, and yesterday morning the waters had reached to within 6 feet of the rails of the bridge, and it was discovered that the drift wood, in consequence of the narrow character of the openings, had been stopped and was rapidly accumulating. Measures were taken by the employment of a number of men to keep the drift wood clear, but without avail, and the bridge, in the deepest part of the river, gradually began to WAGGA WAGGA, FRIDAY.

In the afternoon the bridge had settled still more down the river. The upper part lifted bedily up about 2 feet 6 inches, and the crown of the bridge moved fully 8 feet 6 inches from its original direct line. There is now not the slightest doubt but that it during the night the pressure becomes more heavy, the bridge will give way bedily. The accumulated timber on the upper side of the temporary bridge extends to a distance of at least 100 feet. Amongst it are logs of immense size, and should the structure give way the great amount of debris will be structure give way the great amount of debris will be precipitated almost simultaneously upon the company's bridge lower down the stream. No such severe strain has ever come upon the old bridge, and it is feared, notwithstanding the wide space used on its construction, that the appliances at hand will be unable to compete satisfactorily with the unusual emergency. For the present all work has been suspended in connection with the continuance of the temporary line on the south side of the river, pending what is to be done in the matter of the temporary bridge.

A man is supposed to have fallen into the river lastinght, as the cries of a drowning man were heard, but owing to the flood assistance was unprocurable. The body has not yet been recovered.

The comedy of the "Pink Dominoes," was represented for the last time at the Victoria Theatre last night. To-inght it will be replaced by "Under the Gaslight, or the Streets of New York."

At the Quoen's Theatre "Struck Oil" was played. In this Baker and Farron rise above the sensational character pieces in which they play most frequently, and show that they are capable of far higher things than "Conrad and Lizette." Mr. Baker's John Stofel is a careful study, which equals in merit Mr. Williamson's reading of the part, although in some points it differs from it. Thomas Crawford deposed that he was chief officer of the lost steamship, Bonnio Dundee, a serow steamer, trading between Sydney and the Manning River; she left Sydney at forty minutes past 1 o'clock on Monday afternoon, the 10th instant, her destination being the Manning River; when the vessel got clear of the heads her course was shaped N. by E. half E.; the weather was fine and clear, a light breeze blowing from the northward and eastward until the evening, when the wind fell and it became calm; witness took charge of the deek at 6 o'clock; the vessel was then steering the same course; shortly after 6 o'clock the coloured side lights and white mesthead light were lit and slipped in their usual places; the steamer was then going at the rate of seven or right knots, and was about two or two and a half miles off he land; the vossel had not a full carge and was not deep in the water; she naswered her helm readily; about half-past 7 o'clock witness saw a masthead light, bearing about north by cast and about two and half miles distant; at the same time that witness saw the light, the look-out man on the forecastle reported "a vessel a-head." the strange vessel appeared to be steering as S. V. v. course; at this time the mooth water and little or no wind; a few minutes after the look-out man reported the vessel, witness saw her red light; the then ordered the man at the whoel to keep the vessel of a point, and her course was accordingly changed to north-cast by north; the Boanie Dundee kept on this course until witness saw the green light of the approaching steamer, about five minutes after he saw the red light; at this time the captain of the Bonnie Dundee was on the bridge; the quartor-deek of the Bonnie Dundee was not the bridge of deek, witness saw the green light of the approaching steamer, was approaching, the Newcastol light was in sight about 15 miles on the stop the engines and go full speed astern, but by that time the stranger was close on to them on the starboard side, and immediately afterwards struck the Bonnie Dundee analdships; the water began to pour in on the main deck, and the vessel heaved over heavily to port; witness as we some of the men jump on board the other steamer, and he had the ship's beat lowered, and took charge of it; the Bonnie Dundee such almost at once, foundering about four minutes after the collision; there were four lady passengers on board, the Bonnie Dundee; one of them was a Mrs. Brown, whose dead body witness viewed on Wednesday, in a brouge in Balmain, in the presence of the Coroner and jury; after the Bonnie Dundee had foundered, witness's boat was pulled alongside the strange vessel, which was then ascertained to be the Barrabool, and witness was taken on board, after assisting in recovering the body of Mrs. Brown; (witness here expressed a wish to make a correction in his former avidence; when the mast-head light of the Barrabool came in sight, the Bonnie Dundees was steering N.N.E.;) at the time of the collision, the engines of the Bonnie Dundee were going astern, but the vessel had still a little way on, probably about two knots an hour; witness could not say exactly at 'what rate the Barrabool was going when she struck the Bonnie Dundee, but she was going at great speed, and she struck with great force; witness did not hear any order given on board the Barrabool; in his opition, after the collision, everything that could possibly be done to save life was done by both ships. To Mr. Regers: Witness did not see the green light of the Barrabool first, but the red one; when ships met and line had really a supplied of the Barrabool first, but the red one; when ships not a large of the Bonnie Dundee, which left Sydney on Monday afternoon for the Manning River; the Bonnie Dundee was 221 tons register, and 45-horse pewer; her length was about 120 feet, and her full power of stemming 8 knots an hour; witness went on deek about 6 o'cl

Henry Dose, able-bodied seaman of the Bonnie Dundee, foined the vessel on Monday last; he was at the wheel at the time of the collision with the Barraboel; he went to the wheel about 6 o'clock, when about twelve or fifteen miles that the Monagella the season with the Monagella the season was the season when the Monagella the season was the season when the season was the season was the season when the season was the season was the season when the season was the season when the season was the season was the season was the season when the season was the season when the season was the season when the season was the se the time of the collision with the Barrabool; he went to the wheel about 6 o'clock, when about twelve or fifteen miles south of Newcastle; the vessel's course was then north by east half east; about 7 o'clock witness was directed by the mate to change the course to N.N.E.; the yeasel had passed Bird Island when that order was given; the N.N.E. course was continued until the red light of a steemer, afterwards found to be the Barrabool, was sighted about four miles distant, and bearing about north on the port bow; on seeing the red light, the mate gave the order to keep the vessel off a little, and accordingly witness kept her off another point, her course then being north-cast by north; that course was kept until the Barrabool, when nearly abreast of the Bonnie Dundee, showed her grownlight; the mate order, "Hard a starboard," and witness brought the vessel round till her head was about north-west; the Barrabool was then almost on top of them, and showing her red light, and immediately after that she struck the Bonnie Dundee on the starboard side; the captain went on the bridge about 10 minutes before the collision took place; when the vessel was struck, the captain shouted, "look out for yourselves;" if the Barrabool had not altered her course there was sufficient room for her to have passed between the Bonnie Dundee, was look out man on the forceastle when the collision cocurred; he went on the lookout about 6 o'clock; between 7 and 8 o'clock, while on the lookout he sight a bright mashlead light, which appeared to be straight ahead; about five or tan minutes after sighting the mashcad light the red light to the officer in charge of the deck, and he said "All right:" witness continued on the lockout on the forceastle, when the red light came in sight; witness continued on the lockout on the orceastle, and soon afterwards, when the vessels began to near one another the red light disappeared and the green light of the approaching them of the processing the mashcad light came in sight; almost immediately after th

To Mr. Rogers: Witness did not notice whether the Bonnie Dundes slackened speed; he could not tell that, being forward.

To Mr. Manning: Witness did not see the red light of the Barrabool a second time; he was looking at the Barrabool from the time she showed the green light until the collision occurred; he climbed the bows of the Barrabool after the collision.

To the Coroner: Witness heard the steam-whistic sounded on board the Bennie Dundes; there was so much contusion and excitement that he could not tell whether a bell was rung or a whistle sounded on board the Barrabool; but he was quite certain that the whistle sounded on board the Barrabool; the Barrabool is the was quite certain that the whistle sounded on board the Bonnie Dundee.

Thomas Crawford, recalled, deposed that when he first saw the green light of the Barrabool it was on the port bow of the Bonnie Dundee, nearly straight ahead; he lost the red light, and a minute or two afterwards saw the green light; from the position the ateamers were in to one another, a slight movement of the leplm would have caused the change of lights; when he first saw the green light the Barrabool was about her own length off; there was nothing in the relative positions of the two vessels that would have led witness to apprehend danger until he saw the green light of the Barrabool.

John Charles Simmons, chiefengineer of the Bonnie Dundee, was attending to the engines of the vossel when the collision took place on Monday night; about a quarter to 8 o'clock that evening he received an order by telegraph to stop, and then "full speed astorm"; he obyed both orders without any delay; about a minute after he received the latter order he felt a shock, and almost immediately afterwards received the order "full speed almost," quickly followed by "stop"; after stopping the second time in went on deck, and for the saw the red light and the mast head light.

To Mr. Manning: When the Barrabool's green light first came in sight witness was forward on deck; if no other change had been made from that time in the course of either vessel, witness did not think there could have been a collision; after he first saw the green light of the Barrabool the latter vessel appeared to change her course, and then her green light came in sight; he heard the look-out report the musthead light.

back and see if he could find any one floating; the Bonnie Dundee's beat was also ordered away for the same purpose; soon the chief mate of the Barrabool returned with a lady in his boat; she was got on beard, and though she appeared to be quite inaniunte, efforts were made to endeavour to restore animation for more than an hour and a half, but without avail; after bringing the lady on board, the boat returned to search among the wreckage, but no one clee was found and witness asked Captain Staart if he thought there was any use staying longer; Captain Staart replied that he thought there was any use staying longer; Captain Staart replied that he thought every thing possible had been done, and after the damage which had been done to the Borrabool's bow had been repaired as well as could be under the circumstances, the vessel proceeded on her course to Sydney; about an hour and a half elapsed between the foundering of the Bonnie Dundee and Barrabool's resuming her voyage to Sydney. To Mr. Want: The look-out man, the signals were given by bells; there was nothing to interrupt witness's view-nor that of the mate, the look-out man, the signals were given by bells; there was nothing to interrupt witness's view-nor that of the mate, the look-out man, the salond teek; when two bolls, the signal of the Bonnie Dundee coming in sight, were asrangers on board the Barrabool, two of them—Mr. and Mrs. Lovell—were on the saloon deck; when two bolls, the signal of the Bonnie Dundee coming in sight, were struck, Mr. Lovell asked if that was 8 o'clock, and witness replied, if when two bolls, the signal of the Bonnie Dundee coming in sight, were astruck, who had been the structure of the witness explained the positions and manouvres of the vossel had kept on her course they would have cleared each other put should be structured as the barnabool, it was the duty of the latter to keep clear, and accordingly when first the Bonnie Dundee was again brought the order of some of those on beard the Bonnie Dundee had stated that the green

To a juror: The Barrabool's full speed is ten knots an hour; after giving the order to stop, if the engines were reversed full speed astern, she would go about one-third of a mile before she stopped altogether; there was a rule of the a road that when ships are meeting end-on, all lights being in view, each wessel must port; that was the only case in which that rule held good; when witness gave the order of the londer of the Bonnie Dundee would have run into the Barrabool to the Bonnie Dundee by going about 10 knots an hour; he did not think he could be a starbool's attraction of the Bonnie Dundee's red right was on the Barrabool's when witness gave the order "stop" the Barrabool's date of the Bonnie Dundee's red right was on the Barrabool's when when the Bonnie Dundee's red right was on the Barrabool's date.

To Mr. Sly: The Bonnie Dundee was about 3\frac{2}{2}$ miles distant whon wincess first sighted her masthead light, and about a mile distant when her green light was first seen; would positively swear that, at the time of the collision, the Bonnie Dundee was going at a rate of about 5 knots an hour, and the Barrabool was going at a rate of about 5 knots an hour, immediately after the collision the Barrabool had storn way on; when first the red light of the Bonnie Dundee was sighted the vessels were about three quarters of a mile apart.

To Mr. Manning: The masthead lights of each vassel would probably have been sighted by the other at about the same time, but the Bonnie Dundee would most likely have sighted the side lights of the Barrabool before her own lights could have been visible to the latter, as the moon was rising and was putting the Bonnie Dundee's lights in the Bonnie Dundee's lights in the Bonnie Dundee's lights in the Bonnie Dundee's was lights about two miles ahead, and that he stoered his vessel the Bonnie Dundee's he (the mate of the Bonnie Dundee's) as a to show his own, green light: that suddenly he saw a state of the Bonnie Dundee's said that he was the collision, that he saw the free minutes before the steamer would be stopped.

In particular, the North German Gazette hattmates that the Republic can recison on the sympathy of Germany so long as its policy reflects the moderate and reasonable views of M. LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT .- FRIDAY, MARCH 21.

In Banco.—(Before their Honors Mr. Justice FAUGETT and Sir William Manning.)
THE QUEEN V. CROFT AND FOWELL.
This was a special case stated by Mr. F. W. Meymott, Chairman of Quarter Sessions at Tenterfield, for the consideration of the full Court.
"These prisoners were tried before me at Tenterfield Quarter Sessions on the 4th of March for horse-stealing, and were found rully and sentenced.

Quarter Sessions on the 4th of Marcho for horse-stealing, and were found guilty and sentenced.

"At the commencement of the trial Edward do Crespigny Irby was called as a juryman. He went into the jury box, in and was desired to take the Bible in his hand. The crier of the Court handed him the book, and he took it in his hand and held it for a few seconds while the Clerk of the Peace took up the form of the oath, and just as the clerk began to pronounce Mr. Irby's name a voice called out, it challenge.

"The Crown Presecutor objected that it was too late. It sestained the objection, and Mr. Irby was swom, and sat as one of the jury who tried the case.

"Mr. Dillon, counsel for the prisoners, requested no (before verdict) to reserve the point as to whether the challenge ought, or ought not, to have been allowed. And this is the question that I respectfully submit for the decision of the Supreme Court."

Mr. Dillon appeared for the prisoners; Mr. Pittairn for the Crown.

After heaving argument the Countral discussed the further.

NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, MARON 18.

A profound feeling of regret was caused throughout the city this morning on receipt of the melancholy intelligened that Mr. W. B. Quigley, a gantleman well known throughout this district, had been thrown from his horse and killed the preceding evening on the Terulba Road. Docased was an attonsive landowner both at Lake Macqueric, neaf. Teralba, where his residence was, and at Stochton, New-castle. Before coming to settle down in this district had resided for some years in Noveastle, and he was well known in Sydney on account of his connection with the Mitchell family, the owners of considerable estates near New-castle. The circumstances attending the sad ending of his life were clicited to-day at the inquest held upon the remains at the late residence of deceased, at Lake Macquaried by the district coroner, Mr. C. B. Ramchaud. It reems that about 7 o'clock, on Tuesday evening, a norm named Thomas Sidebottom, accompanied by a lad named Cherry, was proceeding over Cherry-tree Hill, about a nife from Teralba when he observed a horse saddled and bridled, which hi caught, and at once recognized as being the property of deceased. They immediately walled back with the horse and a short distance along the road found the body o'clacessed lying on the ground. Life was quite extinct and the body cold. Assistance was precured, and the remains conveyed to his late residence, while a messenger was dispatched to Wallsend for Dr. Nush. According to the evidence of the latter, the cause of death was the fracture of the base of the skull. The horse was stated to be of a restive dispatition, but there was no evidence to show whether the animal had stumbled with or thrown its rider. A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury. It is stated that in accordance with a wish frequently expressed by doceased whiles living, his remains will be interred on his estate at Lake Macquarie, in a secluded spot elected by him for that purpose. Deceased had been in Newcastle on the day of his meeting with his unti

NEW GUINEA MASSACRES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—On arriving in Sydney I was much surprised to find that no measures had been taken by the authorities to teach the perpetrators of so many unpunished and, as far as all reliable evidence goes to show, unprovoked measurers, a lesson that, at all events, would prevent such occurrences in the future. On making inquiries as to why such a nest of cannibal pirates is permitted to exist, and to continue to disgrace the British flag in waters over which it claims jurisdiction, I ascertained that somebody had made it his business to interviow Commodore Wilson on the subject, giving him as his opinion, and stating that he had every reason to believe, that, not only had the natives received gross provocation, but that the victims of one of the most striking examples of cold-photoded treachery on record had received little more than their due. This I am happy to assert, and on unquestionable authority, namely, that of the principal offenders, to have been very far from the case. The Rov. Mr. MrFarlane, than whom, perhaps, mobody is better acquainted with New Gainea and its inhabitants, plainly states in his report to the Queensland Colonial Secretary, that the ringleaders came down to the beach and openly boasted of the nurders, stating "that all the details of the plan had been arranged on the evening of the Boura's arrival," delaying only for the third day to create more perfect confidence, and a more favourable opportunity for its consummation; he concludes by expressing his opinion of the destribility of the immediate dispatch of a man-of-war (to the his own words) to the scene of so many unprovided navisacros. On the face of all this, can the assertions be accepted of one who is not only entirely ignorant of the facility of the immediate dispatch of a man-of-war (to the his own words) to the scene of so many unprovided navisacros. On the face of all this, can the assertions be accepted of one who is not only entirely ignorant of the facil of the case, but actuated, less by feelings o
